

Nadine Thiruchelvam is an established soloist, collaborative pianist, adjudicator, and teacher in Montréal. She received formal musical training in Edmonton, London (University of Western Ontario) and Montréal (McGill University). Nadine has participated in master classes in Banff, Orford, and Weimar (Germany), and her interest in Spanish and Latin-American repertoire also took her to Barcelona, where she completed the Specialisation in Spanish Music at the Acadèmia Marshall under the supervision of Montserrat Santacana and Alicia de Larrocha.

Nadine is also an accredited music therapist working with diverse populations such as children with autism and older adults with dementia.
